

ROBERT G. INGERSOLL DIES OF APOPLEXY

THE FAMOUS AGNOSTIC STRICKEN LAST NIGHT.

Demise Will Cast a Pall of Gloom Over Entire Country--Part of His Boyhood Days Were Spent In Wisconsin--Short Sketch of Lecturer's Life.

Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—Robert G. Ingersoll, the famous

ROBERT G. INGERSOLL. Agnostic, died at noon today. He was stricken with apoplexy last night. Robert Ingersoll was born at Dresden, N. Y., in the year 1833. His father was a Congregational clergyman. By the removal of his family to the west, Ingersoll's boyhood days were spent partly in Wisconsin, and partly in Illinois. He studied law, and in partnership with his brother, began its practice. In 1862 he became captain of the Eleventh Illinois Cavalry, and after the war was over, began to be heard as an orator. In 1876, Ingersoll proposed the name of James G. Blaine in the national republican convention in a speech so eloquent that his fame extended to all parts of the country. As a lawyer, Ingersoll was connected with many famous cases. He defended the Star route case. He was attorney general for Illinois in 1866. Among his many publications are "The Gods, and Other Lectures," "Some Mistakes of Moses," and "Great Speeches."

REASON OF DREYFUS' COOLNESS TO WIFE

EXPLAINED BY PETIT REPUBLIQUE AT PARIS.

While In Prison At Devil's Island He Was Purposely Allowed to Overhear Conversation In Which It Was Stated His Wife Had Been Unfaithful.

Paris, July 21.—[Special.]—The Petit Republique states how Captain Dreyfus, while in prison at Devil's island, was purposely allowed to overhear a conversation in which it was stated that his wife had been unfaithful to him and was treating his children shamefully. This accounts for Dreyfus' coldness toward her when they first met at Rennes.

RIOTERS BLOW UP STREET CAR.

Cleveland Strikers Use Violence and Situation Is Grave.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 21.—The strike situation here is very grave. Reports from various sections of the city show that the strikers and their friends have given up their policy of preserving order, and have taken to force to win their battle. After dark they gathered at four different points in force and the entire police department was ordered out. They were unable, however, to cope with the rioters. The most disastrous affair occurred on Prospect street where a car well filled with passengers was blown up by dynamite. The track and wheels were blown to pieces and the car body was wrecked. One woman was injured by glass. The militia is to be called out. All last evening Assistant Adjutant-General Kingsley was in consultation with Major John F. Farley. At this conference it was decided to call out the troops if any more violence was offered.

NEGROES AND WHITES AT WAR.

Lake Village, Ark., Reported to Be the Scene of a Furious Conflict.

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 21.—Information received here indicates that the negroes of Lake Village, Chicot county, have risen in an armed force against the white people of that vicinity. Lake Village is the county seat and is about twenty-five miles from a railroad. The negroes of that portion of the state largely outnumber the white population. The home of B. Vinson, a white attorney, has been burned and the white people are arming themselves with the intention of suppressing the riot. It may be deemed necessary for the governor to send troops before the trouble is abated. Lake Village is in the extreme southern portion of Arkansas. Col. Lambert for Senator. Joliet, Ill., July 21.—The latest name mentioned for United States Senator to succeed Shelby M. Cullom is Col. John Lambert of this city. When interviewed about the report, he said that it was all news to him. His friends, however, claim that he would accept it. Col. Lambert is president of the American Wire and Steel company. He is also on Gov. Tanner's staff and inspector of the drainage channel. Miners Held to Agreement. Chicago, July 21.—The Illinois Coal Operators' association adopted the report of the committee appointed Wednesday to consider the advisability of holding the miners to the agreement at the recent interstate convention at Pittsburg. The report decrees that the miners shall not be allowed to withdraw from the contract. The "machine agreement," providing lower rates than those in "pick" mines, was adopted. Holcomb Refuses to Appear. Lincoln, Neb., July 21.—Former Governor Holcomb changed his mind and declined at the last moment to appear before the senate investigating committee. He was willing, he said, to submit in writing his statement of the house rent discrepancy and his knowledge of the ballot frauds, but the committee declined to accept this unless he be sworn and give oral testimony in the regular way.

RACE WAS POSTPONED

Yacht Defender Crippled in a Strong Wind and Compelled to Give Up.

New Port, R. I., July 21.—[Special.]—Today's race between the Columbia and the Defender was postponed. The Defender was crippled in a strong wind and was compelled to give up soon after the start was made.

FORECAST OF WEATHER

Chicago, July 21.—[Special.]—Forecast for Wisconsin:

Fair tonight; Showers Saturday.

Lake of Boiling Mud.

Near Grobogan, Java, there is a lake of boiling mud about two miles in circumference. Immense volumes of steaming mud are constantly ascending and descending, and on the western edge of the gigantic bubbles are continually forming and exploding at the rate of three a minute.

SPECULATE AS TO ALGER'S SUCCESSOR

PORTFOLIO MAY BE TENDERED ELIHU ROOT.

Stated in Washington This Morning That the President Has Virtually Decided to Offer Him the Place—Others Say Matter Will Be Delayed Until McKinley's Return.

Washington, July 21.—[Special.]—It is thought here that President McKinley will not name a successor to Alger until his return from his trip to Lake Champlain. Washington, July 21.—[Special.]—It was stated this morning that the president was fully satisfied that Elihu Root will accept the war portfolio and that he has virtually decided to tender Root the place.

Washington, July 21.—The president has accepted the resignation of Russell A. Alger, and he will cease to be secretary of war Aug. 1. The president's letter of acceptance was handed to Mr. Alger at the war department Thursday after he had visited the white house.

Secretary Alger seems to be happy over the prospect of ending his official duties. He has the appearance of a man who has been relieved of a heavy burden. While he refuses to make any statement, he chats cheerily and more pleasantly than for months. He will probably bid adieu to the department and his subordinates Saturday. Assistant Secretary Melklejohn, who is in New London, Wis., has wired that he will reach Washington at the end of this week. Mr. Alger will turn the department over to him and devote the remaining ten days of the month to straightening his private affairs in this city preparatory to leaving. He says his first purpose is to recover his health. He may take a sea voyage.

There is no indication as to who will be the next secretary of war. Every available man, from the members of the military affairs committee of congress, through the list of the president's friends, is mentioned as a possibility. There is some talk of an understanding whereby Secretary Alger may be given a foreign mission and Ambassador Porter at Paris brought to Washington to become secretary of War. Mr. Porter would make an acceptable secretary, but some New Yorkers claim that he could not be confirmed. The opposition to him will have no influence with the president, however, as the senate seldom attempts to interfere in the selection of a cabinet officer.

President McKinley's letter accepting Secretary Alger's resignation reads as follows:

"Executive Mansion, July 20, 1899.—Hon. R. A. Alger, Secretary of War—Dear Sir: Your resignation of the office of secretary of war, under date of July 19, is accepted, to take effect the 1st of August, 1899.

"In thus severing the official relation which has continued for more than two years, I desire to thank you for the faithful service you have rendered the country at a most exacting period and to wish you a long and happy life. With assurances of high regard and esteem, I am, yours, sincerely,

"WILLIAM MCKINLEY."

Secretary Alger's letter of resignation reads as follows: "July 19, 1899.—Sir: I beg to tender to you my resignation of the office of secretary of war, to take effect at such time in the near future as you may decide the affairs of this department will permit.

"In terminating my official connection with your administration I wish for your continuous health and the highest measure of success in carrying out the great work entrusted to you.

"I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"R. A. ALGER."

"To the president." After having called upon President McKinley Thursday morning Secretary Alger was asked:

"You feel relieved of a great burden?"

"Yes, I do," replied the secretary. "Hereafter I will only have my own burden to carry."

McKinley Summons Greene.

Newport, R. I., July 21.—Gen. Francis V. Greene of New York, who has a summer villa at Jamestown, was last night summoned to Washington to consult with President McKinley. It is thought he will be tendered the secretaryship of war, and in that event, his intimate friends assert, he will accept.

Gen. Greene has the support of Senators Platt and Depew. He served as a major-general in the Philippines and he understands army matters and the conditions in the islands.

Big Combine of Breweries.

Milwaukee, July 21.—A big brewery deal that will involve an expenditure of more than $100,000,000 is said to be on, the western end of which is being worked from this city. The deal will include a large number of breweries in the east, west and south. It is said that all the larger breweries in Wisconsin outside of Milwaukee will be in the combine, and that large breweries have been taken in Cincinnati, Buffalo, New York, New Orleans and some other eastern and southern cities. St. Louis does not figure in the deal.

GIRL PERSUADED TO RETURN TO PARENTS

MISS BERENS NOW AT HER KENOSHA HOME.

Masked Highwaymen At Work In Northern Wisconsin—Agent Relieved of $600—A Would Be Suicide At Marinette Is Rescued Uninjured—State News.

Kenosha, Wis., July 21.—Lizzie Berens returned to her home yesterday. The chief of police, acting on information received from the matron of St. Mary's hospital in Racine, went up yesterday morning to persuade the girl to come back with her parents. He succeeded and returned with her. She has told the reason of her leaving home, and has given the details of her movements since last Friday evening. She said that there was some trouble with her parents over matrimony. They wanted her to marry a Milwaukee man, while she was bent on marrying a Kenosha young man, to whom she is devoted. As a result of this difference of opinion she left home. Friday evening she met Mr. Nicol. When she thought of going home it was late and she was afraid of incurring her father's displeasure, so she and her companion went down to the country club house and spent the night walking along the lake shore.

Early Saturday morning she walked through the cemetery and there met young Doherty, who told the police of meeting her. After spending the day with the Georgens she walked out to the electric line and took the 9 o'clock car for Racine. On arriving there she went to the St. Mary hospital and asked the sisters for help, telling them that she wished to fit herself for the sisterhood. There she remained in charge of the sisters until she was brought home by the chief of police.

The young man, Nicol, who was suspected of knowing of the girl's whereabouts, but who insistently denied any knowledge of her place of concealment or of her movements since he left her near the Baptist church last Friday evening still clings to his first denial in spite of the girl's story. He is said to have visited her in Racine last Tuesday evening, but this he also denies.

This morning he was taken over to the home of Miss Berens and brought face to face with the young lady. He does not seem to be impressed by the seriousness of the situation, and of the position in which Miss Berens has been placed by his conduct.

Masked Robbers Secure $615.

Barron, Wis., July 21.—F. T. Tibbette, agent for the Northern Grain company, was held up by two masked highwaymen about four miles east of this city at about 8 o'clock last night, and robbed of $615. Sheriff Rosenbach, with a large posse of men, is out scouring the country and making a thorough search for the robbers. Three suspects have already been captured near town. The Menominee river bridge, the point at which the robbery occurred, has been the scene of several attempted hold ups in the past.

Charge Against W. H. Jacobs.

Madison, Wis., July 20.—W. H. Jacobs, a well-known real estate man, was held for trial in the Municipal court today on the charge of securing the signature of an old woman to a promissory note under false pretenses. In a deal over some farm land Rose M. Bowman gave Mr. Jacobs a note, and she now alleges that she was misled as to the existence of an agreement upon which the note was based. Her son, J. H. Bowman, denies that the agreement was made. Mr. Jacobs acted as his own attorney, and after cross-examining the witness against him, went on the stand and testified.

Goos Over the Dam.

Marinette, Wis., July 21.—Martin Burns, an old soldier and formerly an inmate of the Milwaukee Soldiers' home, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by jumping from the bridge. He was carried over the dam and down the sluiceway and several hundred feet down the river where he was pulled out by boom men. He was almost uninjured, and his escape is considered almost miraculous. He said he wanted to die because he was without friends or money.

Racine Good Roads Meeting.

Racine, Wis., July 21.—William H. Moore of St. Louis, president of the State and Interstate Good Roads and Public Improvement association, is in the city. A public meeting has been called at the Business Men's rooms this evening, at which Mr. Moore will make an effort to arrange for the holding of a district convention here. The plan is to arrange a circuit of twelve cities, commencing with Milwaukee. At these meetings Gen. R. C. Stone, director of the office of good roads inquiry, and Gen. E. G. Harrison, the government road expert, will deliver addresses.

Wisconsin Pensions.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—Original: James H. Neil, Iron River, $6; William J. Quick, Fond du Lac, $3; Squire William Pierce, West Superior, $8. Additional—Charles T. Baker, Shennington, $6 to $10. Increase—Charles Waring, Livingston, $8 to $8.

Boy Accidentally Shoots Brother.

Neillsville, Wis., July 21.—The six-year old son of John Frank, a farmer living a few miles west of this city, was accidentally shot by his eight-year-old brother last evening. The boys were playing with a gun, while their parents were out picking berries, and it was accidentally discharged, the shot striking the boy's head and resulting in immediate death.

Rappe Leaves for Chicago.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—James A. Rappe, the 84-year-old wheelman who is riding on his bicycle from Marinette to Philadelphia to attend the Grand Army encampment, left Milwaukee yesterday. He expects to reach Chicago today, and intends to spend Sunday in that city visiting his daughter.

Interest on State Money.

Madison, Wis., July 21.—State Treasurer Davidson has received from the banks where the state moneys are on deposit $6,641.48 as interest on these funds for the past three months. Since January 1 the interest on these deposits has amounted to over $12,000.

REVENGE OF STRIKERS

Throw Dynamite Bomb at Cleveland—Excitement Prevailed But Nobody Was Injured.

Cleveland, July 21.—[Special.]—A dynamite bomb was thrown upon the roof of the big consolidated street railway company's barn at 3 o'clock this morning and a large hole was torn in the roof.

The wildest excitement prevailed among the men in the barn, but nobody was injured. The perpetrators made good their escape.

THREE BOYS DROWNED

Bodies Recovered From a Deep Pond In the Town of Watosa.

Milwaukee, July 21.—[Special.]—The bodies of the three sons of George Treis, who were last night reported missing from their home, 3016 Galfast, were this morning recovered from a deep pond at the Manegold stone quarry in the town of Watosa.

The boys were aged eight, nine and eleven years respectively.

CONFIRMATION OF FIGHT AT NEGROS

Gen. Otis Informs War Department.

ENGAGEMENT OF DETACHMENT OF SIXTH INFANTRY.

Clash With a United Robber Band Numbering Four Hundred—Result, He Says, Will Be Beneficial—Chief Surgeon Woodhull Sends a Vigorous Protest to the War Department Against the Inadequate Force, Equipment and Accommodation of the Hospital Service in Manila.

Washington, July 21.—[Special.]—Gen. Otis this morning cabled a confirmation of the fight between a detachment of the Sixth infantry and a united robber band numbering four hundred, in which a hundred and fifteen natives were killed and many wounded. The American loss was one killed and one wounded.

The engagement, he says, will be very beneficial for quieting affairs at Negros.

Otis' Views of the Protest.

Washington, July 21.—[Special.]—General Otis has wired the war department with reference to the protest of the correspondents.

He details negotiations for a relaxation of the censorship, and then says he is not conscious of sending any misrepresentations, but thinks his dispatches at times were too conservative.

He says the correspondents offered nothing tangible when asked wherein his dispatches were misleading. He declares that when they were told that they were disregarding military authority, it was apparent they were coveting martyrdom, which it was unwise to give them.

In a later dispatch, Otis denies the charges made by the correspondents.

MANILA HOSPITAL SERVICE POOR

Chief Surgeon Woodhull Sends a Vigorous Protest.

Manila, via Hong Kong, July 21.—[Special.]—Chief Surgeon Woodhull has sent a vigorous protest to the war department, through General Otis, against the inadequate force, equipment and accommodations of the hospital service in Manila.

He declines further responsibility for the health of the army unless the improvements which he recommends are adopted.

Otis himself refused Woodhull permission to make any alterations in the hospital service.

Twenty per cent of the army is now in hospitals, the chief ailment of the troops being dysentery.

Manila, July 21.—News has been received here from Gen. Smith at Iloilo, Island of Panay, of a severe fight on Wednesday at Bobong between Capt. Byrne of the Sixteenth infantry, with 70 men, and a force of 450 Babayones, who surprised the American troops.

One hundred and fifty of the enemy were killed, as is shown by actual count, many were wounded and one was taken prisoner.

The American loss was one man killed and one wounded.

The fighting was mostly at close quarters, with bayonets and clubbed guns. A considerable stock of supplies and arms has been captured by Capt. Byrne, who is in command of the battalion operating at La Carlota, in the district of Negros.

STRIKERS ARE BEATEN

All Street Car Lines in Manhattan and Brooklyn Running on Schedule Time.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—All lines in Manhattan and Brooklyn were open this morning and cars are running nearly on schedule time. It looks as if the strikers were beaten.

Embargo on Belgian Meats.

Strasbourg, July 21.—The ministry for Alsace-Lorraine has issued a formal order prohibiting the importation or transit of Belgian meats into or through the reichsland. Greensburg, Ind., July 21.—Joseph Krugar, a farmer, residing in the Dillsboro neighborhood, mistook his son for a burglar and emptied the contents of a shotgun into his stomach. The boy will die.

Halibut in Alaskan Waters.

Washington, special Minneapolis Journal: "One of the most remarkable things on the North Pacific coast is the large number of halibut in Alaskan waters. Small steamers catch cargoes in a few hours' time, and it is no strange thing to see a hundred thousand pounds caught in from two to three days. Last month an American steamer on her way to Tacoma had 132,000 pounds of halibut caught off the Alaskan coast in three and a half days by eighteen men. At three cents per pound this cargo was worth $3,900."

DEATH OF AN AGED CLINTON RESIDENT

A REVISION OF THE VILLAGE ORDINANCES.

Bicycle Riders Must Keep Off the Walks—Officers Instructed to Make Arrests if Necessary to Prohibit the Practice—Interesting News of a Personal Nature.

Clinton, July 21.—At the regular meeting of the village board, held Monday evening, a motion to revise the ordinances was carried. The city marshal was instructed to keep bicycle riders off the sidewalks, and make arrests if necessary, to prohibit the practice. Miller, though still in poor health, was able to come to Clinton last week.

RASH ACT OF A SHARON MAN

Theodore C. Wolcott Shoots Himself and Dies Instantly

Sharon, July 21.—Shortly before noon last Friday, Theodore C. Wolcott shot himself, and from all appearances died instantly. The young woman who has lived with the family for many years had gone to the market, being absent only about fifteen minutes. While she was away, Mr. Wolcott arose from the bed, spread a quilt on the floor, placed himself upon it and with his left hand shot himself through the temple. When the woman returned and went to administer his medicine, he was dead, lying peacefully, as though life had departed instantly. His left hand had dropped across his body and the fatal weapon lay on the floor by his side. The shot was heard by several persons, but no suspicion or apprehension was aroused. During the past few months Mr. Wolcott had been in extremely poor health, at times suffering intensely. At the time he committed the rash deed, he had been confined to his bed for several days. Rae Howell, wife and son, left Tuesday called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because it properly prepares it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit; costs about as much as coffee. 15 and 25c

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

BELOIT SENSATIONAL EVENTS

Wheelwoman Trampled to Death—Little Girl's Narrow Escape

The Beloit News of last evening has the following accounts of sensational happenings in that city:

A drunken farmer, driving a single rig, rode down a woman on a bicycle yesterday evening on Broad street. The farmer was Ole Ingelbrietzen and the woman was Miss Kate C. Haley, who lives at No. 451 South Bridge street.

Ingelbrietzen was driving down Broad toward State street at not a very high speed, but in a very reckless manner, and ran his horse and buggy over Miss Haley, who was riding down State street. She was knocked off her wheel, the horse trampled on her and the buggy wheel went over her, bruising her severely on the back and hips, and inflicting painful internal injuries. She was picked up by the bystanders and taken to her home in a carriage. Officer Scheibel arrested the farmer, and this morning Judge Booth fined him the limit of the law.

Louis Biogman was in the police court this morning on the charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty and was sent to the county jail for five days to sober up. Officer Chamberlain found Biogman near the Northwestern station last evening in a reckless mood and flourishing a loaded revolver.

City Marshal Appleby returned this afternoon from Dodgeville, having in custody George Atkins, who stole the bicycle from Hober Zacharias. He also brought back the wheel and the bicycle suit.

A DARIEN WOMAN SUICIDES.

Mrs. Dr. Rhode Inhales Chloroform and Drowns.

Mrs. Rood, wife of Dr. Rood, of Darien, committed suicide last Sunday by saturating a cloth with chloroform and inhaling it, from the effects of which she died Monday morning at 2 o'clock. A note which she left explains the cause for the act, which she attributes to ill health. She was a daughter of John Mowers, of Allen Grove. She was about forty years of age. The funeral took place in Darien Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr. W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by People's Drug Co., corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

Style and Economy Combined.

Seen the $3.50 and $4.00 umbrella? They are made for dressy—yes, fastidious—people. You have paid $5.00 and $6.00 for umbrellas which couldn't approach them—in stylishness and thorough goodness. A chance to save a couple of dollars is always welcome, isn't it? The $3.50 and $4.00 umbrellas afford you just such a chance.

At $1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 2.00, we show excellent values in black umbrellas with pretty wood handles beautifully mounted.

Shirt Waists.

Assortments and Values Which Bring Through.

Been to this waist section lately? Notice the crowds of eager buyers? Ever occur to you why they came in numbers? Reasons.—First, the greatest and most varied assortment hereabouts; second, tempting prices. If you need waists you should follow in the footsteps of the majority of women—that is, wend your way here. Remember, every waist in store at cut prices.

Jewelry.

Some Specially Cheap Lots.

"Cheap" applies more particularly to the prices than to the goods. Of course it is "cheap" jewelry, not the solid-gold kind, but then the finish and workmanship are so excellent that the goods are deceiving. If you have any need for any of these you will save if you buy now.

Bug Pins, beauties.

Tiny Neck Clasps, lovely effects in cut steel, brilliants, enamel, jet.

Belt Buckles—everything, two hundred styles.

"FIGHTING JOE" JUNIOR.

He Is Major Wheeler and Will Soon Go to the Philippines.

Joe Wheeler, Jr., who has just been appointed major in one of the new volunteer regiments and is going to Manila to take a hand in the crushing of the Filipinos, is a true son of his father. He is another "Fighting Joe," not much bigger, but apparently with just as much grit and courage.

"Young Joe," as the people of Georgia like to call him, was graduated from West Point in 1895 and has the grade of second lieutenant in the regular army. He acted as instructor of mathematics at West Point for a time after his graduation.

Just about the time the Spanish-American war broke out he had been granted a furlough and was preparing to take a trip to Europe, to which he had long looked forward with much enthusiasm. He had even gone so far as to secure his passage. But with the blowing up of the Maine he threw his plans overboard.

"A fellow can go to Europe any time," he remarked, "but it isn't often he has a chance to fight for his country."

So instead of browsing around on the continent he spent his furlough in Cuba on his father's staff. Now he is to go to the Philippines as second in command of a regiment of volunteers, and it is quite probable that he has forgotten all about ever having wanted to go to Europe.

General Wheeler has another fighting son. This is Tom Wheeler. He is 18 and is in Annapolis. He was just beginning his course a year ago, but he secured a furlough and an appointment as midshipman on the Columbia. Now he is back at the Naval academy, where he has the distinction of being one of the veteran cadets.

Senator Morgan still for Bryan. Montgomery, Ala., July 21.—Senator Morgan in an interview at Anniston reaffirms his devotion to the Chicago platform and Bryan. Senator Morgan says he does not agree with Bryan in his advocacy of a protectorate over the Philippine islands, as it is the most dangerous of all the plans suggested, but if the democrats of Alabama want Bryan the senator will throw up his hat as high as the highest.

May Call Meeting of Sovereigns. Berlin, July 21.—A story is in circulation to the effect that at the instigation of the czar a meeting of all the continental sovereigns will be held at Paris during the exhibition next year as a sort of continuation of the international peace conference.

CAROLINA rice 5c a pound, 11 pounds 50c. Sanborn.

Dewey Wins Prize Money Suit. Washington, July 21.—Admiral George Dewey, through his attorneys, Thursday filed suit in the District court of the District of Columbia as a libellant to recover prize money due him and the officers and crew under his command for the vessels captured in the battle of Manila bay and the property subsequently recovered by them.

Seven Die in a Burning Town. Berlin, July 21.—Advices received here announce that the town of Dobzhitz, in the government of Volhynia, Russia, has been destroyed by fire. Seven persons lost their lives in the conflagration and the surviving inhabitants have been rendered destitute.

WILL NOT YIELD ALASKA LINE.

American Members Fear Boundary Settlement May Fail.

Washington, July 21.—A meeting of the American members of the joint high commission, including Senator Fairbanks, was held at the state department Thursday, and the Alaskan boundary question was discussed. In order to decide whether the Americans should meet the Canadian commissioners Aug. 2, the date set for the reassembling of the commission. Secretary Hay said that no definite conclusions had been reached. His remarks indicate that he does not expect the commission to meet again. Secretary Hay gave the impression that the United States would not yield a particle or withdraw a single foot from the line which was fixed in the negotiations with Great Britain as the boundary between Alaska and Canada.

Mr. Fairbanks reported that the situation so far as the miners were concerned was satisfactory, but the views he originally held regarding the boundary line had materially changed. He feels now that in the interest of the miners, as well as that of this country, it will be necessary for the United States to maintain the position it has taken. It is said by officials that the chances for a settlement of the boundary question are very uncertain.

Nearly Agree on Arbitration.

The Hague, July 21.—The third committee of the international peace conference adopted the thirty-four articles of the arbitration scheme, with the exception of the five clauses relating to international courts of inquiry, action on which awaits the results of instructions from the Roumanian and Servian governments to their delegates. The first committee unanimously supported the prohibition of firing explosives from balloons. Capt. Mahan and Sir Julian Pauncefote proposed a formal convention upon the remaining points of the Muraviev circular. This was agreed to, and the amended report will be submitted to the full conference.

Serious Washouts in New Mexico. Santa Fe, N. M., July 21.—It has rained every day for eleven days and all streams are swollen. Serious washouts have occurred on the Santa Fe and on the Denver & Rio Grande railroads. The train on the Denver & Rio Grande, due here Tuesday evening, has not arrived. On account of washouts and the telegraph wires being down, no word of its whereabouts has been received here. The train from the south to Denver and La Junta, on the Santa Fe railroad, was abandoned last evening.

Paris, July 21.—M. Yves Guyot's opinion concerning the scope of the Rennes trial is confirmed by an official statement from the government that the court-martial must confine its attention to the bordereau and nothing else. This makes acquittal sure. The friends of Capt. Dreyfus from now on will simply be laboring to render the judgment so decisive that his enemies will be utterly crushed, and Capt. Dreyfus will re-enter the army victoriously.

Chief Flatmouth Is Agitated.

Walker, Minn., July 21.—Chief Flatmouth appeared arrayed in war paint and feathers in a most excited mood. He said he had called a council of all the Leech lake Indians at the old agency next Monday to protest against the revocation of the eviction order. He says the reservation is their territory, and that if the settlers were permitted to remain in one part of it there was no excuse why they would not be permitted to go to other places.

South Wants Lee and Wheeler.

Richmond, Va., July 21.—There is a demand in Virginia and in the south that Gen. Fitzhugh Lee and Gen. Joe Wheeler be given charge of the Philippine campaign. It is believed that if this is done there would be no trouble in getting thousands of volunteers in this section.

Peck's Plans Are Favored.

Washington, July 21.—Commissioner-General Peck of the Paris exposition had a consultation with the president today, in the course of which he explained his plans for the government exhibition at the great fair and they received the president's hearty approval.

Scurvy Epidemic in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—F. Spellaey of St. Mary's, Ohio, a recent arrival from Alaska, reports much scurvy in the Koyukuk district last winter. In his opinion 30 per cent of the miners of Allenkett river had it.

NEW PLAN TO GET RECRUITS.

Commissions Offered for Securing Men for Manila Regiments.

Washington, July 21.—The war department has adopted a new plan for raising recruits for the Philippines. A commission as second lieutenant is offered as the prize to certain young men who will secure forty volunteers for the two regiments, the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh, which Gen. Otis is enlisting. It is explained that this policy does not indicate a scarcity of recruits, but is adopted for the reason that all the officers recently commissioned and the full machinery of the department is working to fill the ranks of the ten regiments which are to be raised in this country, rather than to bring the two new Manila volunteer regiments up to their maximum strength.

The work of recruiting for the ten new regiments being organized here is producing results which are pronounced at the war department to be satisfactory. A grand total of 3,123 men has been enlisted in nine weeks.

JUSTICE TO GEN. ALGER.

Secretary Alger has handed in his resignation to the president, and will soon step down and out of the war department. No man in public life has ever been more bitterly attacked and more cruelly criticised. The yellow newspapers "went after Alger's scalp," and nothing was too brutal for them to say. They saw only things that they could criticize, and were blind to all good qualities.

The people of the United States will never believe that Secretary Alger was as the yellow papers pictured him, and it is just that they should not. General Alger was only a man, and has never claimed to be a worker of miracles. He took hold of the office in time of peace, and a declaration of war found the department tied by out-of-date rules and unnecessary red-tape—the result of the general belief that the United States would never take part in another war. The position was a trying one, yet General Alger brought about a great change in a short time. From the first he was the target for non-combatants, camp followers, editorial coffee coolers, and disgruntled and disappointed office seekers and army officers. No man could have managed the war department, under these circumstances, without making mistakes. Alger made them, but so would any other human being.

On the whole, General Alger's administration has been good—neither brilliant nor culpable.

Egan's errors injured him, and Miles' attacks did him a great injustice, while the yellow press pursued him relentlessly and without a thought of truth or justice. A few weak-kneed and disgruntled republican papers joined the journalistic jackals in their campaign, and as the result, General Alger has been forced to retire—not because he has made a monumental failure of his work, but because certain papers have seen fit to do him a monumental injustice.

His retirement is a good move politically, and new blood in the war department will help the administration—new brooms always sweep clean—but these facts do not alter the case. General Alger has not merited the virulent abuse heaped upon him, and the American people can be depended upon to appreciate the situation and give just measure of both praise and blame—an equalization that General Alger has not enjoyed since he has been in the cabinet.

Eastern democrats still seek to run Dewey for president, in spite of the fact that Dewey declines the honor, and is also a republican. The democrats seem to have hard work finding either principles or leaders these days. The republicans, on the other hand, are united and harmonious. Republican principles have survived all shocks, set backs and attacks, and under them the country has always flourished. Under the circumstances, therefore, there appear to be but one course left to the democrats—join the republican party, and "make it unanimous."

Captain Tom J. Rogers, of Beloit, has been recommended by Col. Schadel for a captain's commission in the volunteer army. Wisconsin has never produced a better soldier than Tom J. Rogers and we hope that Col. Schadel's advice will be acted upon.

The lot of the fireman may be a happy one, but when the bell rings he takes his life in his hand and goes bravely to his work. Janesville firemen have been lucky, but who can tell when their turn will come?

Milwaukee Journal-Tribune have an easy time of it and good pay, do they? But forty of them go down into the ruins at once. Whose turn next? What is an easy time of it compared with such risks?

Come what may, the legless Kenosha man who was married the other day will not be able to kick.

And General Alger, too, should be loved "for the enemies he has made."

It is pretty hard, during this hot weather, to be compelled to wrestle with the problem of when it is best to buy coal. But he who buyeth not now, may have to pay more later—or vice versa—just the same.

Secretary Alger was, is, and has resigned.

AMERICAN KING.

David O'Keefe, Who Is the Sovereign of Yap Island.

The recent story of the power and wealth of David B. O'Keefe, the white king of the islands of Yap, Oia and St. David, is corroborated by advices from Hongkong, per steamer Tacoma. O'Keefe is a naturalized Irish-American, 68 years old, and is known at Hongkong as the "Copra King." His islands are a detached portion of the Carolines. When he settled at Yap he married a native princess, who is a shrewd woman, and who rules when he is away. The islands over which he rules are his by right of discovery, and the acquiescence of the native rulers. He has held them against the rival claims of Spain and Holland. Over the islands he floats the Stars and Stripes, and on his single trading schooner he flies the Union Jack. The islands are distant about five days by steam from Manila. The principal island of the group is called Yap. It is larger than Hongkong island, and is surrounded by minor islands, among which figure Terang, Obi, Pekel and Dunji. These four islands, situated in Yap harbor, are the alleged property of the Copra King. His residence is on the first named (commonly known among the other traders as the "Hell of the Carolines"). It is here his native wife rules supreme during his absence, showing her shrewdness, as also her proverbial animosity for all the other European traders or employees of the South Sea trader. It is on the island of Terang that he keeps the mass of his bartering stores, as also the copra (cocoanuts from which the oil is to be extracted), which he takes to Hongkong in his schooner Santa Cruz. The island of Dunji was until recently in the hands of a German firm doing a good business in the copra trade. It passed over to his majesty's group some two years ago when Herman Grosser, one of the heads of the home office referred to, went to Yap to settle the necessary transfer papers. The other two islands are unimportant. The island of St. David is not in this group, but in the Pelew islands, more to the south. It is to this island that Holland lays claim. The copra king has been among these islands for 20 years. Both he and the native traders desire that the islands shall be taken possession of by the United States or England.

ONE OF THE SIGHTS.

Upon the Streets of Manila Is the Chinese Ear Cleaner.

The Chinese ear cleaner is one of the strange and unusual sights of the old city to attract the attention of Americans. The Chinaman who is engaged in the business is provided with a stool and a small bamboo case, in which are inclosed his instruments. The Filipino is just as sure of having his ears cleaned on Sunday as an American is of having a shave, and in the by-streets and alley-ways they line up for all the world like a barber shop on Sunday morning, the only difference being the Chinaman can't say "Next." First of all, the Chinaman takes a razor which looks more like a propeller blade than anything else, and, wiping the victim's face with a wet rag, proceeds to mop the dirt therefrom. While watching this part of the proceedings I was surprised at the flexibility of the native nose as demonstrated by the skillful fingers of the operator. To windward, to leeward, on its stern, beam and bow, the native's nose is rapidly twisted to avoid the aforesaid razor. Having removed the real estate from the native's face, the Chinaman turns to the more difficult task of ear-cleaning. The smallest spot of dirt and the tiniest fleshworm are removed before the operation is complete, and from the heavenly expression one would imagine that the operation was anything but pleasant.

Served Her Right.

The Kansas City Star tells of a Triplet (Kan.) girl who sent a dollar to a smart New Yorker for a "sure cure for freckles." This is the recipe which she received: "Remove the freckles carefully with a pocket knife, soak them overnight in salt water; then hang up in the smokehouse in a good, strong smoke made of sawdust and slippery elm bark for a week. Freckles thus treated never fail to be thoroughly cured."

WORTHY OF UNCLE SAM.

Our Building at the Paris Exposition to Be a Fine One.

The building in which the government exhibits will be housed at the Paris exposition of 1900 will be one in every way worthy of this country. While of course it will not compare in size and magnificence with some of the great structures erected by the French, it will stand comparison with the buildings of other foreign governments. It is to be one of which Americans may well be proud. The designs for the exposition building have been recently approved, and work will soon be begun on its erection. It will be substantial in form and artistic in design. The architectural theme, which smacks of the renaissance, is well worked out. The graceful dome is to be capped by a ball on which perches an eagle with outspread wings. Thus the national bird very appropriately caps the edifice.

In size the new exposition building will be fully sufficient to accommodate all our exhibits without crowding, for our commissioners have been very fortunate in securing space allotment from the French authorities.

A WOMAN MAIL CARRIER.

Her Route Lies Through the Desolate Part of Arizona.

A woman carries mail over the most dangerous and desolate route in Arizona. She is Miss Sarah M. Burks. Twice a week, she traverses the 52 miles between St. Johns and Jintown, riding a horse through a most forbidding region infested by bad Indians and worse whites. The road she follows is a mere trail which winds over mountains, through rocky gorges and over hot, scorching alkali deserts. Miss Burks removed to Arizona in 1890. She accompanied her parents, who made the change on account of her mother's health. Her mother died, and several years ago her father lost his fortune in wool raising. Mr. Burks settled in St. Johns and opened a livery stable. Two years ago, being in straitened circumstances, he took the contract to carry the mail over the star route to the mining camp of Jintown. Soon after that he became an invalid, and his daughter pluckily undertook to fulfill the contract. This she has been doing ever since.

The darling little lady has grown brown and rugged in her services as MISS SARAH M. BURKS. Uncle Sam's mail carrier in one of his most unfavorable regions. She wears garments adapted to her work. Her hat is a wide straw, which she sometimes ties about her face when the winds sweep from bold mountains. She wears short skirts of blue serge, a corduroy or canvas jacket much like an Eton jacket, leather leggings and heavy shoes.

A belt and holster, in which is a fine pistol, is always about her waist when she is on her horse. Then she has another revolver and a lot of cartridges in her saddlebags. She has never been molested, and she isn't afraid of being troubled either, for she is one of the best women shots in the country.

YESTERDAY'S OUTING A SUCCESSFUL ONE

EXCURSIONISTS RETURN TIRED BUT PLEASED.

First Train Arrived Last Night at 10:30 O'clock and Second At 12:30—Visitors to the Cream City See Many Places of Interest—Band Boys Left.

The much-talked-of picnic of the grocers of Janesville and their friends at Whitefish bay is a thing of the past, and was an event long to be remembered by those who attended.

The first train bearing the returning excursionists arrived here at 10:30 o'clock last night, and the tired but happy picnicers lost no time in seeking their homes and couches to dream of one of the most successful outings that has been held in years. The second and last division left Milwaukee some two hours later than the first, and did not arrive until 12:30 a. m.

On the outward trip about one-half of the people left the train at Milwaukee and proceeded to inspect the many attractive features of the city, which were found most entertaining. Milwaukee has the reputation of being a place where beauty and the amber fluid reign supreme anyhow, so no one was allowed to depart dissatisfied.

Visit Places of Interest.
A number visited the Public Works, City Hall, Layton art galleries and the Soldiers' Home, the latter alone paying one well for the trip. In the afternoon many took passage on the steamer "Bloomer Girl" for the Bay, and were afforded a fine view of the city from the lake. All found the resort a most ideal place to spend the day, and the interest in the situation was never allowed to lag.

The present season is proving a record breaker for successful excursions to the Cream City and this beautiful resort, and the one of yesterday will go down into history as one of the best of them. Some of the members of the band and their friends were out on the lake returning from the city to the bay, when the last train left. They were compelled to return to Milwaukee and spend the night, and did not reach home until 7:30 this morning.

Northwestern Deserves Praise
Janesville may be a little sleepy today as a result of the affair, but if there is anyone who is kicking about anything connected with it the census taker has not found him yet. The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company certainly are deserving of praise for the accommodations provided and the able manner in which the cars were handled. General Agent Gleason was in charge and deserves credit for the watchful care he exercised over every detail. Exactly 1,040 tickets were sold and the number of the satisfied ones, 1,039, the one exception being Thomas Nolan, the grocer, who came home with a broken arm. But that was no fault of the railroad company as the accident did not occur en route.

THOMAS M. NOLAN INJURED.

Thomas M. Nolan, the well-known groceryman, had the misfortune to break his left arm yesterday, and the injury is a most painful one. Mr. Nolan was attending the picnic at Whitefish bay, and was riding in an electric car from the bay to the city. He had his arm out of the window when it came in contact with a pole that cleared the car by but three inches. The break is a bad one and will cause him a great deal of inconvenience for some time. Luckily the accident occurred within three blocks of the office of the railway company's surgeon, and Mr. Nolan was enabled to get prompt attention. This is the third accident that has occurred at the same point within a very short time, and the company should be made to pay dearly for their negligence in not removing the dangerous pole. Dr. Joe Whiting is attending Mr. Nolan, and hopes to soon have the arm in shape.

Parties have stolen our labels, style of package, and tell the sick that "our" tea is just like Rocky Mountain Tea. They would ruin your health for a little added profit. Smith's Pharmacy, Kodak Agents.

How He Caught Them.
Rev. Mr. Newby, the new pastor of the Christian church at Guthrie, O. T., is likely to lose the confidence of his beloved flock. During the sermon last night he stopped abruptly, and asked: "How many of you have read the Bible?"

Fifty hands went up.
"Good," said the pastor. "Now, how many of you have read the second chapter of Jude?"

Twenty-five hands went up.

A wan smile overspread the divine's face.

That's also good; but when you go home read that chapter again, and you will doubtless learn something to your interest.

There is only one chapter in the Book of Jude.

ELECTED TREASURER OF THE STATE DENTAL SOCIETY.

Dr. H. A. Palmer Is the Lucky Person—He Also Came Within Three Votes of Being Elected President—Seven Local Tooth Pullers At Madison.

The local delegation of toothpullers who have been attending a three days' session of the State Dental society, returned home last evening much pleased with their visit.

The society adjourned its session yesterday afternoon after the election of the following officers:
President—J. H. Bond of Lancaster.
Vice Presidents—T. M. Welsh of Waupun and Lawrence J. Wenker of Watertown.
Secretary—W. H. Mueller of Madison.

Treasurer—H. A. Palmer of Janesville.

The delegation from Janesville consisted of the following: Drs. C. E. Pierce, R. R. Powell, K. J. Hart, C. C. Devereaux, Ira Holsapple and H. A. Palmer. The party left here Wednesday morning for the Capital city.

Dr. Palmer came very near receiving the highest honors within the gift of the members of the association, coming within three votes of being elected president. He has been a member of the association for the past ten years and has attended and shown a great interest in all the meetings, therefore is worthy of even more than empty honor.

Wednesday evening the entertaining dentists provided their visitors with tickets of admittance to the assembly grounds, also to passage on a steamer and an evening was most profitably passed.

The next place of meeting of the society will be La Crosse. The forenoon session yesterday was devoted to clinics, and talks were given by Drs. E. S. McBurney, of Delavan, C. H. Seeger, of Manitowish, E. A. Gatterdam, of La Crosse, G. V. L. Brown, of Milwaukee, and E. J. Hart, of Madison. Two papers were read by Drs. C. S. Bradley, of Beloit, and G. W. Snyder, of Baraboo. Fifteen new members were admitted to the society.

COHEN TO BE HELD FOR TRIAL.

Must Answer to the Charge of Defrauding Insurance Companies.

The examination of Isadore Cohen, charged with defrauding the Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance company of Germany out of $200, was completed in the Municipal court today. The defendant offered no evidence, but his lawyer made the usual plea for a dismissal of the case. Judge Fifield didn't see it that way, however, but decided to hold Cohen for trial. He was given until tomorrow to get his bondsmen here from Milwaukee, when the date of the trial will be set.

THE stone crusher matter has been satisfactorily settled and Mayor Richardson yesterday signed the contract. The Austin Company on their part, agreed to hold the city harmless against any infringement on the machine. G. W. Welch, the company's representative, left for Chicago last evening.

BAD BURGLARS ARE AT WORK.

Office of Schaller & McKay Entered Last Night.

Thieves last night forced an entrance into the office of Schaller & McKay's lumber yard at the Five Points and got but fifty cents for their trouble. Entrance was gained by removing a screen and forcing the window, after which the thieves bored an auger hole in the money drawer, opened it, and went south with the fifty pennies it contained. The damage to the drawer amounts to about $2.50. No clue was obtained as to the identity of the parties who committed the crime, though the general belief is that it was done by some of the "hobos" who have infested the yards of late.

THE Father of Arizona.

Charles D. Poston, upon whom the Territory of Arizona has just conferred a pension of $25 a month, is known as "The Father of Arizona." He is the first delegate to Congress from that section. He has been a world-wide traveler, and is full of stories of China sea pirates and how he governed his little Kingdom of Tubac.

Y. M. C. A. DEFEATED IN YESTERDAY'S GAME

REVENGE WAS SWEET FOR MORRISSEY'S BLUES.

Exhibition Game At Sharon Witnessed By a Small Audience—Metzler Pops the Ball For Two Home Runs—Two Base Hits Were Numerous.

That we cannot be winners all the time, was exemplified at Sharon, yesterday, when the Y. M. C. A. ball team of this city, went down to defeat before the Oshkosh players.

The score was 11 to 4, and was clearly the result of unfortunate circumstances. The game was a hard fought one, and furnished more excitement for the spectators than Sharon has been treated to for some time.

Adkins' lame arm was responsible for fourteen safe hits being made off from him, and prevented his having the usual excellent control of the ball. The balance of the team failed to make up the deficiency by careful playing, and were soon at the mercy of the "saw-dust" aggregation. Jennings pitched for Morrissey's nine, and should have been easy, but for the falling to pieces of the locals. The score by innings:

Oshkosh..... 2 0 2 3 1 0 1 3 2-11
Janesville..... 2 1 1 0 0 0 0 0-4
Hits—Off Adkins, 4; off Jennings, 3. Errors—Janesville, 7. Oshkosh, 2. Home runs—Metzler, 2. Struck out—By Jennings, 1; by Adkins, 3. Two base hits—Joss, 2; Sullivan, Morrissey, Oshkosh; Clark and Allen, Janesville. Hit by pitched ball—Allen, McMaisters, 2. Umpire—McGulley.

A YARN WITHOUT A MORAL.

By MORGAN ROBERTSON.

[Copyright, 1899, by Morgan Robertson.]

It was in the early days of lake traffic, when vessels were small, discipline lax, and when each forecastle might contain one or more part owners. Dunkirk Sam, Bill Tubbs and Starboard Jack, composing the crew of the little schooner Alma, held no such dual relations with their captain. They drew wages, not profits. But, as their captain was old Long Tom Tucker of their own town, whom they loved and "sassed," and advised and obeyed as they pleased, their treatment of him was in no way calculated to impress strangers with any other belief than that they owned the whole vessel—and Captain Tom too.

At Kingston, after discharging cargo, they had put on their shore clothes and selfishly gone to the theater, leaving Captain Tom to keep ship or go ashore with himself or the cook as he liked. The mate, newly shipped, lived in Kingston, and early in the evening had fled to the bosom of his family. The captain sulked for awhile under the slight put upon him by his "boys," went ashore alone, met his agent, then hunted up his mate and sent him aboard, for the agent had secured him a load from Port Hope to Oswego. Then he hid himself to the one theater of the town, bought a ticket, went in and vainly coaxed the three unregenerate to head the call of duty. Useless endeavor! They were kind to him—asked him to sit with them, but would not budge until the performance ended. Captain Tom coaxed, ordered, fumed and finally swore; then was collared by a scandalized fat policeman and cast forth into outer darkness, followed by the heartless threat of the three to tell his wife and the minister when they got home, for Captain Tucker was a sturdy pillar of the church.

Filled to the brim with "aggravation," he returned to the wharf where his vessel lay and helped the mate loose the canvas, vowing to pay off the three "soggers" at the first American port. The three left the theater at 11 o'clock and leisurely made their way to the vessel. Had they seen a restaurant they would have satisfied their slight hunger before putting themselves under Captain Tom's domination—not that they anticipated increased peril from the weakness attending empty stomachs, but they knew that the cook, as indifferent to nautical etiquette as themselves, had turned in for the night; hence, there would be no night lunch prepared—and it was a long time until breakfast.

Discussing the matter made them hungrier. Starboard Jack suggested the advisability of turning back and hunting for an eating house, "for," he said, "the skipper won't turn the cook out for us tonight, but he'll get his own nibble from the galley." They agreed to this, and Captain Tom's prospective selfishness condoned their own unfeeling behavior, giving the balance of injury to them. They became outrageously hungry and halted when a rooster, aroused by their voices, arose to full stature, clattered at them and settled down again. Fatal mistake.

Starboard Jack testified later that visions of a chicken potpie, partaken of at home, entered his brain, and the savory odor seemed to be in his nostrils. Bill Tubbs admits that his wayward thoughts serenely reviewed an oft-regretted early dissipation, in which he had disgracefully attended a cockfight. Dunkirk Sam never committed himself, but it is on record that Dunkirk Sam was the first to sneak.

"Mighty fine rooster; Shanghai, too," he said.

"Nice and fat," remarked Bill Tubbs, turning square the other way, thus putting temptation behind him.

Why discuss the devious course of criminal thoughts through the doubts and fears of noncriminal brains? Ten tarry digits closed around the neck of the drowsy bird, stifling the indignant outcry; five were later removed to the struggling claws, threatening to ruin Starboard Jack's new "go ashore" coat, and three guileful marauders fled through the darkness.

It was blind, illogical crime for crime's sake alone. Their hunger may have suggested the abduction; the abduction could in no way satisfy their hunger. But this did not occur to them. Guilty fear possessed their souls, excluding other thoughts, even of their empty stomachs.

With the rooster snugly imprisoned under Starboard Jack's arm, they tumbled over the Alma's rail and down the forecastle stairs, unheeding the tirade of reproach launched at them by Captain Tom. Here a hurried confab resulted in the raising of the trapdoor and the unceremonious bundling of the nearly choked fowl into the inky darkness of the fore peak. One protesting squeak arose from the depths. Then they changed their clothes, went up and made sail, meekly taking the scolding they had earned, but Captain Tom's wrath finally gave way to astonishment at their submissiveness, and he desisted, for they had given him not one word of "back talk." How could they?

Captain Tom Tucker was a Lake Erie navigator and had brought his little schooner down to glean some of the lucrative barley trade of the lower lake. Knowing nothing of Lake Ontario, he had secured a mate who did, and this was enough—for summer sailing at least. He had no use for charts—would not have one aboard—or any other salt water methods. He believed in carrying courses and distances in his head, where he could get at them when needed.

An hour after the mate had given the course up the north shore and turned in, the fog shut down, moist and thick, blotting out the patch of blacker darkness that loomed up as land to the northward and making the voice of Dunkirk Sam, hearing the lead at the request of the anxious captain, sound hoarse and resonant as he called out, "No bottom."

Captain Tucker wished, not for a chart, but that he knew that shore better and, not caring to call the mate, took his stand at the weather bow, tooting the fog horn and straining sight and hearing into the wet blanket ahead. The wind was off the land at an angle which just allowed Bill Tubbs at the wheel to lay his course.

In his bunk in the fore-cabin was Starboard Jack, making the best he could of his watch below, and beneath him, he it remembered, was the confiscated rooster. Either his conscience or his empty stomach or the fog horn above kept Starboard Jack awake, and he rolled out to enjoy the usual sailor's relief from insomnia—he lighted his pipe.

It was not daylight, nor time for it, and the occupant of the fore peak had no legitimate right or reason to think so, but, he was, no doubt, rather upset by the night's adventure and his powers of discernment unequal to the task of distinguishing between daylight and the flicker of a lighted match showing through the chinks in the fore-cabin floor. Or it may be that he understood and merely expressed approval of the light shed on his darkness. He gave vent to a hearty, long drawn crow, which, reaching the ears of Captain Tom on the weather bow, unfurled and indistinct, seemed to him to come from the lee side, where there should be nothing but open water.

"Great snakes, where are we?" he shouted. "Hear that, Dunkirk? Did you hear it? Light up the jib sheets. Hard-a-lee. There's land over there."

Around went the little vessel. Starboard Jack heard with dismay the sounds beneath and above and started up to forestall any further mischief by honest confession, but the sight of Dunkirk Sam's round face, shaming with silent, unholly glee as he peered down the hatch during the transit from jib sheet to jib sheet, sent him back. Dunkirk Sam returned to the lead, while Captain Tom tooted the horn from the weather bow, now, of course, the other side. When a lonely rooster begins to crow, it is hard to guess when he will stop. The schooner had been skimming along straight for the shore for five minutes, and Dunkirk Sam had just called out, "Mark 20, hard bottom," when Captain Tom distinctly heard another rooster—not the first; they were leaving that astern. This one was on the lee bow, as before, but in another direction.

"Oh, my good Lord," he groaned, "where in Sam Hill are we—barnyards all round—we're going up some river. Hard up, Bill," he yelled. "Hard up. Slack off the main sheet and get her fore the wind."

He ran aft to look at the compass and call the mate if necessary, waving his long arms and shouting. Dunkirk Sam jerked the lead inboard and sped to the forecastle hatch.

"Starboard!" he called in a hoarse whisper, "you awake?"

"What?"

"Wring his neck; the old man's goin' daft. He near benched her."

Dunkirk Sam's sense of humor had left him when his lead reached bottom. Captain Tom attended his vessel due southeast and had partially recovered his wits, when from straight ahead he heard another rooster. The misnamed fowl in the fore peak had proclaimed his third defiance just as Starboard Jack raised the trapdoor to descend upon him. Loud and clear came the clarion note to the ears of the perplexed skipper, to whom it seemed not three lengths ahead.

"Hard down," he snarled to the grinning Bill; "hard down, man; down the wind."

"Chicken thieves, scoundrels, ingrates," with that wheel. We're going ashore; what you laughin' at? Down with it!" He seized the spokes and ground the wheel over.

"Bring her up and shake her!" he shouted back as he raced forward with great leaps. "Get that anchor over. Dunkirk, call Starboard."

Starboard Jack was forced to come up, and the rooster enjoyed a reprieve. Hurdled, under the supervision of the frantic skipper, they pried the big anchor off the bow, lowered and let it go as the schooner shot up into the wind, shaking her sails. Bill Tubbs now lay himself on the deck near the wheel and rolled in convulsive laughter, but the two worthies forward ruefully watched the skipper insanely pay out chain until, with 30 fathoms out, the anchor caught. They anticipated the heaving in.

Ordering the foresail and jibs lowered in a tone which admitted of no protest, he stalked around the deck. The rooster, possibly frightened by the deafening din of the chain going out, remained silent, and the guilty ones hoped for a chance to silence his voice forever, as Captain Tom was in no humor to take a joke. But Captain Tom staid forward, blowing the horn at intervals and looking anxious.

Daylight came and with it a change of wind which scattered the dense fog into curious, detached masses of smoke shapes, showing the north shore fully two miles away and not a farm, barnyard or rooster within range of the astounded captain's vision. His face was a study.

With open mouth, puckered forehead and bulging eyes, his gaze wandered from the shore to the water each side, to his innocent looking crew, to his own long figure, which he scanned from his feet up as though doubting his own existence, and back to the shore.

The mate and the cook were called, and all hands manuevered the windlass, the captain holding slack and earnestly explaining to the mate the ghostly interference of the night. "What you grinin' at, you three?" he suddenly demanded.

As he spoke, the rooster, encouraged by the faint diffusion of the morning light in his prison, crowed again. It was a startling, enthusiastic crow, long and weird. In it he expressed his appreciation of the kindly light, his disgust at his treatment and defiance to his enemies, his hunger, his thirst, his memory of the happy barnyard home and his desire to get back. It was his soul's tribute to liberty and happiness, but it was his deathknell.

It was followed by an uproarious burst of laughter, and Captain Tom, with a reproachful glance at his men, descended and wrung his neck. Then he reappeared, and with legs apart and arms waving, declaimed. Nothing would excuse an exact repetition of his language. Chicken thieves, scoundrels, ingrates, miserable low down "whittin's of nothin'" were some of the names he called them, well sprinkled with shocking, piratical profanity. "Might ha' known somethin' was up," he concluded. "You're been so all fixed civil." After breakfast, while steering, Dunkirk Sam ventured to expostulate.

"We lifted him, cap'n, 'cause we don't get much fresh meat in your vessel. Now, I'll tell you what we'll do. If you'll let the cook fix him up for a potpie dinner, and you'll promise, yourself, not to pay us off, as you said, why, we'll all promise, every one of us, not to tell the other coppers 'bout it, and we won't tell the minister 'bout the way you cussed, neither." Without answering, Captain Tom shamefacedly went below. Ten minutes later the cook asked Bill for the rooster. This story has no moral. Not that in the eternal fitness of things this should be. It ought to go on record that the people choked them, but nothing of the kind happened. There is not a point on which a moral can hang.

Captain Tom steered, as was his habit, while the rest mastered around the cabin table. The cook divided the potpie into six sections and ate his share in the galley. The mate finished his dinner and went up to relieve the skipper, who, not having quite forgiven his "boys," waited until they had finished before going down—an unwise delay.

Three pairs of eyes lifted from three well emptied plates and gazed longingly at the remaining share of potpie. Glances and grins were exchanged, then three spoons reached toward the platter, and the captain's dinner was removed. It was shameful.

Naturalness of Children.

In the public restaurant, where at one or two hours of the day come families to dine, entered paternal families, mother and juveniles horribles, and sat at meat. The young person was arrayed like one of the children devoted to slaughter in the Tower by cruel Richard III of England. His long blond hair hung down upon his spotless broad collar, his white throat stood out from its graceful scarf like ivory, and his dress showed where the loving hand of a mother had laid each fold in careful place. He was, in short, the boy to make a father proud. He was healthy, vital, active and devilish. Into this same restaurant and at this time came also a family whose appanage included a little girl hooded, demure, garbed with niceness and lovely.

"Hmrah, mother," yelled the boy; "here is a little girl!"

"Hush," said the mother; "take your dinner."

"No, mother, it is a little girl," and with a frankness that defied conventionality the youngster, whose age is not 5, stepped over to lady child and put out his hand. "Where do you live?" he said. "My name is Chum Someone; what is yours?"

"Lizzie," said the female baby; and put her hand in his, and they walked down the room together, passing the lobster, broiled and otherwise, but in that curious atmosphere giving old methods the sweetness and innocence that only children live in.—Philadelphia Times.

Birthday Feasts In Samoa.

A friend of mine described a birthday feast at "Vailima," at which she assisted. European and Americans from Apia and the plantations had been asked, with officers from the warships and natives of high rank. The latter came on horseback, men and women riding astride, in the Polynesian fashion.

The feast was spread upon the floor, which had been covered with a mat of ferns and leaves; young pigs roasted whole in the ground, with fish and fowl and breadfruit, comprised the substantial, while there were fruits of many varieties, cakes which the Samoan loves, and drinks of many kinds and of varied potency. Two young natives took up their post in the center of the table and carved the pigs with skill and dispatch, distributing the juicy morsels to the guests, who were seated, right and left, upon the floor, and were expected to partake of what was set before them, native fashion—with their fingers.

When the feast was over every fragment was gathered up by the servants of the Samoan guests and carried home, as is permitted by the rules of native etiquette.—Leslie's Weekly.

A large class of Mexicans commonly called psons wear a kind of sandal. These are called "guaroches," and consist of a simple sole of leather held to the feet with strings which pass between the toes and are tied about the ankle.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. Law, Keokuk, Iowa. For sale by People's Drug Co.

Modest Women

Modesty in women is no less a charm than beauty and wit. Is it any wonder that women afflicted with physical disorders peculiar to their sex shrink from personal examinations by male physicians? The weaknesses and irregularities of women may be recognized by certain unfailing symptoms. Backache, headache, bearing-down pains, irritability and extreme nervousness indicate derangement of the delicate female organism. Bradfield's Female Regulator is the standard remedy for characteristic diseases of women. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE END HOG.

And the Fat Man That Crowded Into a Car Seat.

Boston Herald: I saw a funny sight the other night on a boulevard electric, which rather knocked the "end hog" silly. A man weighing in the neighborhood of 400 pounds shoved a woman with him in the seat which already held two other passengers; one of them yielded to pressure and moved in, the other held the fort, and then came the tug-of-war. The stout party became purple with rage: "Please move up." The "end hog" blandly answered: "I can't." Then the 400-pounder made one more desperate effort, and finally squeezed himself through the second place, puffing and panting with the exertion. But his woes were not over. A woman had stopped the car, and as the conductor counted but four heads for this particular bench, he ordered her in there; and she went, climbing over the "end hog" to a space of less than three inches besides the choleric passenger, who was the embodiment of six furnaces. It was more laughable to see the indignation on the countenances of those this last wedge had made miserable. The "end hog" hung his face over the running board and tried to breathe; the fat party sprawled out his elbows and grumbled to his companion, and the other-end seater hunched herself into nothingness in vain. When the "fifth wheel" to this coach finally got off the car she was crushed together like an opera hat. Then the others expanded, and once more four passengers on that particular bench were more than it could conveniently accommodate. I was sorry to leave without knowing whether the stout gentleman had the right of way, or if he stepped on and obliterated forever the "end hog" when he reached his destination.

Admit White-Liner Workers.

Muncie, Ind., July 21.—At the flint-glass workers' international convention Thursday the white-liner workers of the United States and Canada were accepted into the glass-workers' body. There are 500 of these men, engaged in making the white glass caps for fruit jars. The final amalgamation will occur at the next annual meeting.

Anti-Goebel Ticket Sure.

Lexington, Ky., July 21.—It has been definitely determined to issue a call for another state convention to nominate a candidate for governor in opposition to Senator William Goebel, who is declared by many leading democrats not to be the candidate of the party.

Tithe Rent Bill Is Passed.

London, July 21.—The tithe rent charges bill passed its third reading in the house of commons. The vote was 182 in favor of it to 117 against. Several unionists and liberal members voted against the bill, while others abstained from voting.

Black Sea Wrecks.

There is no part of the world which has such a black record for wrecks as the narrow Black Sea. The number in some years has averaged more than one a day, the greatest number of wrecks recorded in one year being 425, and the smallest 154. About 50 per cent of these vessels became total wrecks, all the crews being lost.

English Naval Nicknames.

The English bluejackets call the admiral in command of a fleet "the Rat," according to the Cornhill. The captain is called "the skipper," or "the Old Man;" first lieutenant, "Number One;" gunnery lieutenant, "the Master" (the obsolete actual title); chaplain, "Sky Pilot;" "Devil Dodger;" "Fire Escape;" chief engineer, "the Chief;" paymaster, "Pusser" (from pursuer, the title in former days); assistant paymaster, clerks, etc., "ink slingers;" "quill drivers;" surgeon, "Saw-bones;" "Pills;" "Dock;" gunner, "Wads;" boatswain, "Pipes;" carpenter, "Chips;" "Gatemaker;" "Wood Spoiler;" master at arms, "Jaunty" (gendarme); ship's corporals, "Crushers;" marines, "Jollies." The generic terms for the bluejacket himself is "Flatfoot," or, if an elderly man, "Shell-back;" "Jack Tar" is a creation of the landsman, and as such is never used in the service, although, perhaps, "Jack" is admissible as in contradistinction to Tommy Atkins.

Gifts from C. Vanderbilt.

An old custom which has not survived in many modern churches is the buying and selling outright of pews, just as one would buy a cemetery lot. The custom survives in old Trinity church at Newport, where Cornelius Vanderbilt presented to his daughter, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, a deed to a pew as a gift. William K. Vanderbilt has also given a pew to his son, who recently married Miss Fair.
